"I carried two myself, for some time." Cross examination brought out no contradiction. Geo. W. Bailey was next called but the Court would not admit what the defence wanted to prove by him, as to what Stokes said and did before the murder. The witness Bailey testified that he met Stokes near the Grand Central hotel. The latter endeavored to persuade him to go into the hotel but he delined, and on walking up Brordway met Stokes' brother when they both returned to the hotel, when they heard of the shooting of Fisk; they then went to the station house to see Stokes and while at the lat-

the effect that he was Chaplain of the Forty-eighth Infantry during the late war, and went to Reynolds county about a year ago from Clinton, Iowa, and was a strong Republican in politics. His troubles first originated in politics, but the whipping grew out of the fact that last November the Court House of Reynolds county was burned, and again in May, destroying all the county records. Incendiarism was suspected, and Marion Johnson was indicated for the act on the 21st of June. Calahan published a letter in the sitting on a bench with Powers; heard Powers ask Stokes what he came to the hotel for, and Stokes replied that he had to cover up their frauds in land titles. Not one man in fifty, he says, knows anything about this, Calahan names the Stokes went armed. No questions were excluded.

St. Louis, Julyo.—A few days ago news reached here of the severe flogging of Rev. Thos. Calahan, near Centreville, Reynolds county, Mo., on the night of June 23d by a band of disguised men. Yesterday Calahan arrived here, having walked from Centreville to Rolla, 190 miles, where he took the railroad far this city. He made a long statement to United States Marshal Newcomb and United States Commissioner Eaton to the effect that he was Chaplain of the Forty-eighth Infantry during the late June. Calahan published a letter in the Ironton Enterprise exonerating Johnson. He knew who did burn the Court House, hotel, when they heard of the shooting of Fisk; they then went to the station house to see Stokes and while at the latter place saw the boy Redmond, who, on being asked what was the matter with him, said that he was brought there as a witness to the shooting, but was so frightened that he hardly knew how it happened.

He knew who did burn the Court House, but gave no names. On the night of the 23d, while he was watching his sick wife and child, seven men with blackened faces all of a sudden entered his house and dragged his wife from her bed and plundered the house, bound him and took him half a mile away and after attempting to make him tell who set fire to the Court House, and the court House, but gave no names. On the night of the court House, but gave no names. tempting to make him tell who set fire to the Court House, gave him about seventy-five lashes on the bare back with hickory nve lashes on the bare back with hickory switches and then ordered him to leave the country in ten days on penalty of death. Calahan further stated that there was a ring in Reynolds county, against whom he was strongly opposed and who were interested in destroying the county records.
